

Dôle on indirect paths

Dôle is a top of the Swiss Jura that is very busy. In fact, starting from les Dappes, its climb amounts to only a very small effort. The fact that the view one has from this top is exceptional is attracting a lot of people. Here, I propose climbing this top, but on very little frequented paths. We will start from le Bauloz in order to reach the pasture of Gerle, from where the view onto Lake Geneva is startling. Then, passing by Potraux, we will join the regular path climbing from the Chalet de la Dôle. After the striking contrast, we will go down along the path that crosses the road to the Dôle several times.
